

How we score Northfield claims

One page for the team. Assessment date: 31 July 2026. Every claim on the project uses this sheet.

1. What a claim is

A claim is one testable sentence about how the company works: who (a role) may or must do what, under which condition. Add the system and exceptions if they are part of the point. If you cannot name the role, the action, and the condition, it is not a claim yet.

This is a claim	This is not a claim — split it or drop it
Head of Finance must approve new-business discounts of 15% or more in the CRM before Closed Won.	“Discounting is a mess.”
New customers follow a 6-week onboarding owned by Customer Success.	“POL-01 says Finance is involved.” (that describes a document, not the organisation)
Sev 1 issues must be ticketed before Engineering is engaged.	Two ideas in one sentence. Split them.

2. Always split the layer before scoring

The same topic can be two claims with two different scores. Never mix them in one row.

Layer	Meaning	Example
Formal	What an approved, in-force document says	POL-01: Harriet approves ≥15%
Practised	What people and systems actually do	Diane signs urgent deals on Slack
Gap	Nobody is assigned	Who has the final call when Sales and CS disagree on a renewal
Draft / pilot	Talked about, not in force	POL-04 draft; informal escalation pilot
Stale leftover	An older doc that was never updated	PROC-02 (2022) still names the Financial Controller

3. Fill this card for every claim

Claim ID _____ Process (P1–P8) _____ Layer formal / practised / gap / draft / stale

The claim (one sentence) _____

Valid from / to _____

Supports it (source IDs) _____

Contradicts it (source IDs) _____

Copies of the same thing (count as one) _____

Status Supported / Likely / Conflicted / Unlikely / Unsupported / Not enough evidence

Confidence High / Medium / Low

One-line why _____

What would change our mind _____

4. How to choose Status and Confidence

Status = how much we should believe this sentence, at this layer. Confidence = how complete the evidence is. You can be confident that something is conflicted. Do not invent a 0–100 score. Status + confidence + one-line why is the score.

Status	Use when	Confidence	Use when
Supported	Different kinds of source agree (policy + meeting + records). No serious contradiction.	High	Two or more different kinds of source (document, interview, meeting, CRM/audit). Direct and dated.
Likely	Main sources agree, but something is thin (one interview, a missing field, overdue review).	Medium	One solid source, or several sources from the same team.
Conflicted	Good evidence on both sides, or formal and practised disagree. This is a valid answer.	Low	Hearsay, slogan, draft, or a single Slack message.
Unlikely	Some support exists, but stronger evidence goes the other way.
Unsupported	The claim is stated, but the files do not back it.
Not enough evidence	We would need a source we do not have. Do not guess.

Five checks, in this order

1. In force? Draft, superseded, or last-updated before a conflicting policy change → that source is weak. 2. Specific? Named role, number, system, field beats “that’s how we do it.” 3. Independent? Policy + CRM beats two Sales people saying the same thing. 4. Copied? Slack messages that repeat one workaround count as one source, not three. 5. Docs vs practice? If they disagree, score two claims. Do not average them into one number.

5. Worked example — do yours the same way

Claim A — formal. Head of Finance must approve new-business discounts ≥15% in the CRM before Closed Won. Supports: POL-01 (approved, 1 Mar 2025). Contradicts (as formal rule): nothing of equal weight. PROC-02 is older (2022) so it does not outrank POL-01 on the written rule. → Likely / High. Formal rule is clear. PROC-02 is a stale leftover, not a second current policy.

Claim B — practised. Every ≥15% deal is approved by Finance in the CRM, with no exceptions. Supports: some CRM rows list Harriet. Contradicts: Diane’s Slack bypass (COMMS-01, 02); the same workaround copied to others (COMMS-03, 04 = copies, count once); deals with Slack/email/no approval (e.g. DEAL-014, 027, 041). → Conflicted / High. We are sure practice is not the policy. We are not sure how often the bypass happens until we count the CRM.

That pair is a finished result. You do not have to pick a single winner.
